The Scottish heritage of our campus is apparent in the tartan of the Blue Hose. However, the symbolism which the tartan embodies to Presbyterian College extends further than these Scottish roots. Just as the colors and threads of the plaid intermingle to create the composite, so do the different facets of our experiences weave together to form the total person.

149072

Each person at Presbyterian College is composed not only of his experiences prior to his coming to PC, but also of the new challenges he faces. However, these threads of challenge do not cut the ties of home and our past.

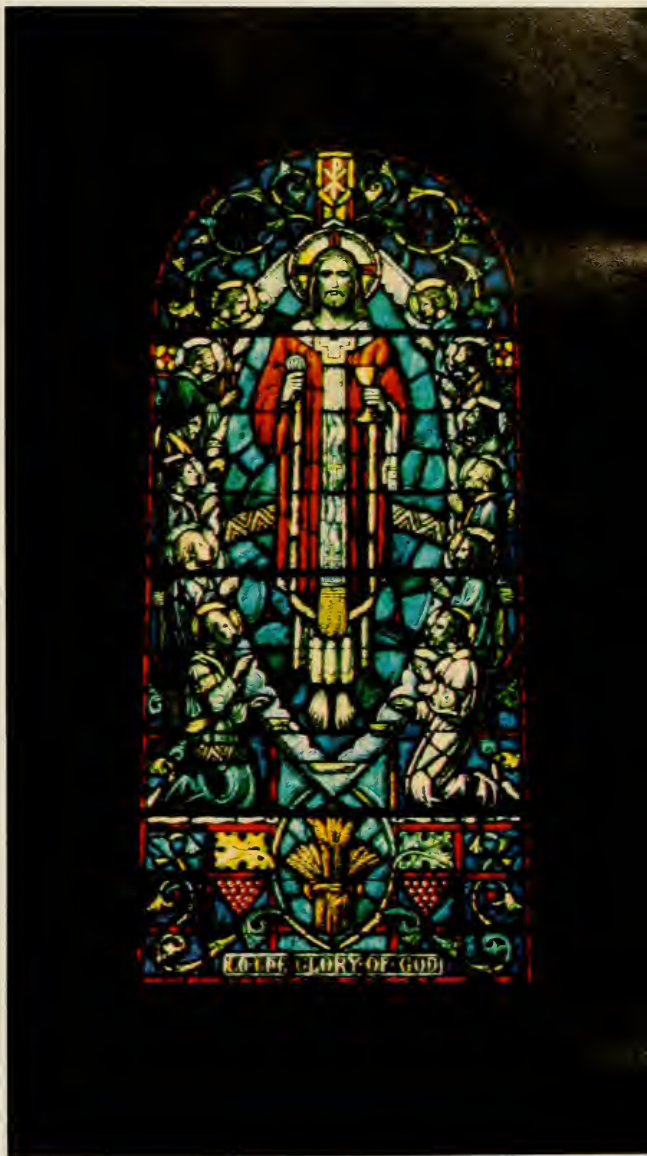

The opportunities and activities at PC all help to compose the tapestry of our lives, and each new event builds on what we have experienced before as the tartan's threads begin to knit a tighter weave.

We bring many preconceived ideas with us to Presbyterian College. Some of these ideas will alter drastically while others will be reinforced by what we encounter at college. Religious, moral, and social ideals are often subject to change as we make our first decisions without the intervention of our parents.

Many new relationships will be interwoven into our years spent at PC. Some of these relationships will be composed of threads which will meet again and again while others will cross only once.

The threads of the lives of PC students are not restricted to academics. Community interaction, cultural events, and athletics help to mesh the fabric of our liberal arts education.

The many diverse friendships, experiences, activities, and opportunities which PC extends to us weave together to become the material of our later lives. The diversity of our lives helps to make the material more colorful, for great tapestries are composed of many colors and threads.

SPECIAL THANKS

REV. ARTHUR S. GATEWOOD

Four years ago this campus was blessed with the addition of a set of rambunctious 3 year old twins, a pair of beagles, and a very special man. This man first impressed us with his candid manner, telling naive freshmen of his own failures in school and of his efforts to overcome them. He has counseled many people and helped in ways that only they will know. His hardworking nature has led him to take on many jobs apart from his duties as Chaplain and Student Volunteer Services Coordinator. Committee work, Westminster Fellowship, the Staley lecture and Winter Retreat, intramurals, district coordinating of the Special Olympics, and chapel services make heavy demands on his time, but he always has time to talk.

Those of us that know him well can see his patience, understanding, and humor, and we would like to give special thanks to Arthur S. Gatewood for his involvement with us.

DEDICATION

DR. MARC C. WEERSING

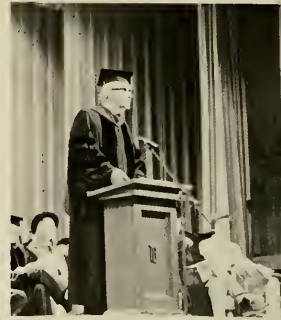

This year Dr. Marc C. Weersing resigns his position as Presbyterian College's president. Dr. Weersing has devoted the past 15 years of his life to making PC the outstanding educational institution it is. During his tenure as president of the college, Weersing has been instrumental in the construction or renovation of twelve campus buildings, the development and expansion of many new curriculums including the Fine Arts department and cooperative education programs with Clemson, Vanderbilt, and Duke, and an increase in student enrollment without the sacrifice of PC's high admission standards.

While Dr. Weersing will be remembered for his developments of PC's campus, curriculum, faculty, and student body, we will remember him in a different way. The friendly smile and wave from across the plaza, the welcoming drop-in which he and Mrs. Weersing hold for new students, and the open door to his office are the memories which we students will retain.

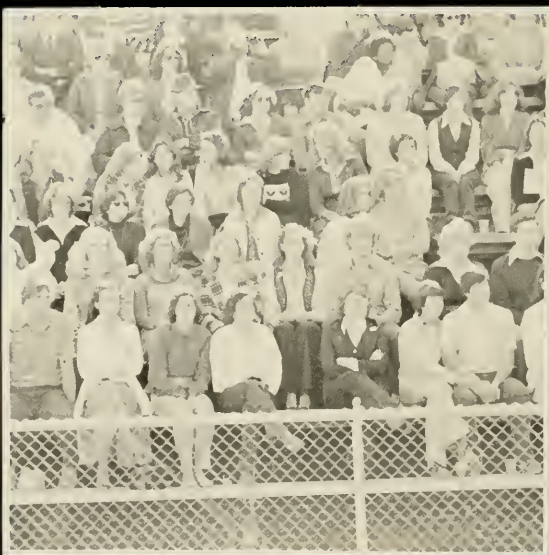

We probably don't often take the time to express our appreciation for all you've done for PC and for us, but we are aware of all the extra things which you and Mrs. Weersing do to make PC not only a school, but a home for us. We're glad you will still be in Clinton after your retirement because it's good to know that friends are so close. Thank you for everything.

FRESHMEN ORIENTATION

The 1978 Freshman Orientation program helped to weave many new threads into PC's student body. Many exciting activities helped the freshmen's first days at PC pass quickly. Members of the Freshman Orientation Board, Men and Women's Councils, and other student leaders greeted new students and their families. The new students soon found their lives becoming entwined with the lives of roommates, upperclassmen, faculty, and staff. Orientation activities aided in this entwining of lives as the students found themselves seeing many new faces. Besides the assemblies, speeches, and testings, there were the traditional beanie caps, signboards, and sunrise serenades which provided ample opportunities for students to get acquainted. The Weersings invited all the new students to their home for a drop-in; the FOB held a field day full of games and stunts; the freshmen mixer provided a relaxed atmosphere for new students to meet one another (and for upperclass football players to check out the new women); and the Big Sister-Little Sister program gave the women an additional opportunity to get together.

TRANSFER ORIENTATION

The orientation program for new students saw a change this year with the addition of the Transfer Orientation Board. TOB was made up of the executive council of the SGA and several former transfer students. This program was designed to provide an opportunity for the transfers to get together and find out about PC before the other upperclassmen arrived on campus. Transfer students were invited to participate in any of the planned activities for freshmen if they wished, and a special orientation program was held with speakers from various areas of campus life. The highlight of the activities was a picnic-cookout at Dean Nixon's home before the freshmen mixer.

RUSH

The 1978 Fall rush season added a great deal of excitement to campus life. The six national social fraternities worked and partied hard in their "rushing" for new pledges. Party themes were varied — from Toga parties (a la Animal House) to Formal drop-ins and Golf tournaments; from tubing parties to boxer beer busts. Rush ended as each fraternity held its "smoker" which gave the rushees a final opportunity to evaluate each fraternity before they pledged. There were a great many men who chose to pledge a fraternity during the fall rush, making 1978 one of the best rushes ever.

Belk Auditorium was certainly jazzed up for the Sam Wooding orchestra.

MUSICAL EVENTS

Various concerts throughout the year added to the color of PC's activities. The first of these concerts was performed by the Sam Wooding orchestra which was an exciting jazz concert. Later in the fall semester, pianist Robert Hamilton gave an excellent concert for PC students and the public. One of the more unusual concert activities to come to PC in recent years was "Scotland on Parade," a Scottish fling with bagpipes, Scottish Dancers, and a Scottish dinner. The afternoon's entertainment and an evening community concert were sponsored by the Clinton Music Club and the profits were used for music scholarships.

FALL DINNER CONCERT

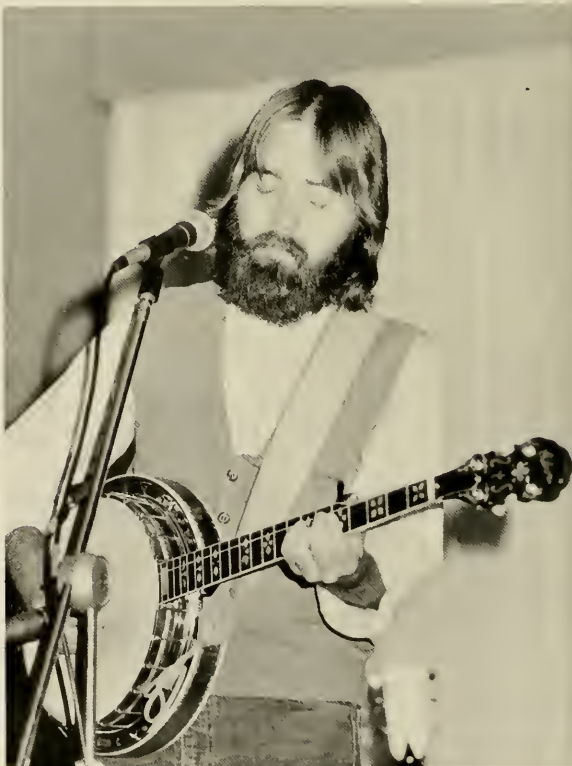

A new SEC activity was added to the fall list of PC events. The first Dinner Concert was held in October, and the event featured a concert by Meisburg and Walters and a display of magic and mental exercises by John Ivan Palmer. Meisburg and Walters pleased the audience with their presentation of music ranging from folk to gospel. Palmer mystified the audience with his magic tricks and demonstrations of mental telepathy. The dining hall provided an excellent buffet dinner, and those in attendance enjoyed the good food and the special entertainment.

TRAVELS

PUERTO RICO

In May 1978 a group of 14 students with Hudson, James, and Burns undertook a 25-day tropical biology course. The trip took them to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands to study the flora and fauna of the tropical habitats. Life found in the tropical rainforest, deserts, and coral reefs represented a wide variety of adaptations. One outstanding part of the course was a night visit to a bioluminescent bay where students enjoyed swimming in shimmering blue water. Biological interests were supplemented by a tour of Old San Juan, shopping in St. Thomas, a steak and lobster dinner at the Mafolie, and other outings. The students learned much more from their experiences in the Caribbean than would have been possible in a classroom situation, and the trip was a success.

The PC group looks a little wet after their trip through the tropical forest.

The study of tropical vegetation is part of the trip.

ENGLAND — SCOTLAND

Tom and Mary Stallworth took a group of 9 students and 1 other adult on a study-tour of England and Scotland for a course on early Reformation. Most of the classwork was done during the spring semester, while the trip gave students the chance to see the places where important events in the English and Scottish Reformations occurred as well as touring other places of interest. The tour included visits to London, Stonehenge, Canterbury, Hampton Court, the Lake District, Stratford on Avon, Worcester, Oxford, Cambridge, Corbridge, Edinburgh, Loch Lomond, The Isle of Iona, and St. Andrews. Three weeks, many pounds, souvenirs, photographs, and happy memories later, the group returned to the United States from what all agreed was one of the greatest educational experiences offered at Presbyterian College.

EUROPE

STUDYCADE '78 was an adventure for the four P.C. students who accompanied Dr. Charles Gaines on the trip. History, music, art, romance, and fun were packed into three and a half weeks of touring Europe. Arriving first in Paris, the girls found that the Frenchmen were in prime form. The students visited the beaches at Nice where they discovered that the beaches were made up of rocks. Not only were the students surprised by the sudden pain on their feet but they were also surprised to discover that the women were topless. These events were just the beginning — Italy, Austria, Czechoslovakia, West Germany, and East Germany were also included on the tour, and each place was just as exciting as the one before. The students returned weary, but they brought back a wealth of knowledge and experience which they believed to be invaluable.

SENIOR VISITATION

Many high school seniors visited the PC campus this fall on Senior Visitation Day to take advantage of the opportunity to look at PC's campus, talk with students and faculty members, and obtain information about the possibility of attending PC.

Programs with various speakers, campus tours, a college fair featuring various areas of campus life, and an exhibition tennis match were on the agenda for visiting seniors in an attempt to give them a glimpse of college life during their short visit. The PC Players presentation of Macbeth added to the events available for the seniors to attend in order to give the visitors an appreciation of college life.

PARENTS' WEEKEND & YOUTH DAY

Presbyterian College provides several special weekends for visitors to the campus, including Parents' Weekend and Youth Day. Parents and family members visited PC and spent the day at various activities including the annual father-daughter tennis tournament and a program with student and faculty speakers and a choir presentation. Next, the families were given time to meet with faculty members before eating supper at the dining hall. The final activity for Parents' Day was watching the Blue Hose victory over Lenoir Rhyne that evening. Youth day brought youth from many churches to PC. The visitors were given tours and attended a program in Belk. After dinner in the dining hall, the visitors went to the PC — Catawba game. These weekends give visitors an opportunity to see the variety of activities that PC has to offer.

The choir's performance added to the Homecoming festivities.

Homecoming 1978, with its theme "visions of the Past, Present, and Future," was a weekend to be remembered by both students and alumni. The weekend began with the annual Alumni tennis tournament and the Blue Sox festival where various campus organizations performed skits pertaining to "Visions of the Future." Blue Sox was followed by a coffeehouse in the Scottish Lair which featured Robert Starling. Float competition centered around "Visions of the Past," and the game itself was a vision of the present. Alumni returned to PC to attend class reunions and visit the campus as well as to see PC defeat Gardner-Webb.

One of the highlights of the Homecoming activities was the halftime crowning of the new Homecoming Queen and the announcement of her court. After the game many alumni and students went to parties at the fraternity court, while others attended the alumni-varsity basketball game. The weekend, with its flurry of activities, was another opportunity for the entwining of old and new threads into the cloth that is Presbyterian College.

The crowd anxiously watches another Blue Hose play.

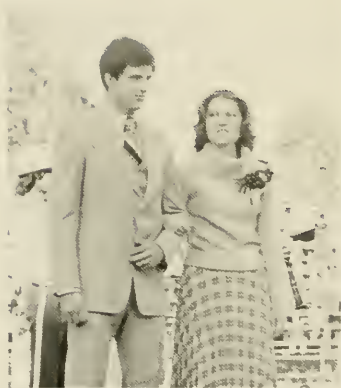

The Sigma Nu's and friends worked into the night to complete their float for the competition.

CANDIDATES

The crowning of the new Homecoming Queen and the announcement of her court were two of the highlights of the weekend's festivities. Candidates were sponsored by 19 different organizations on campus. The announcement of the Homecoming Court was an addition to the regular Homecoming activities. The proposal for the Homecoming court was voted on and approved by the SGA and met with the general approval of the student body. The addition of the court proved to be a welcome change and added to the suspense of the halftime activities. The weekend was exciting not only for these candidates but also for every student at Presbyterian.

WINNERS

Homecoming, with its many competitions, provided many 1978 winners. Tony Chapman and David Tribble captured the Alumni Doubles tennis title, while Clinton dorm won the Blue Sox festival and Belk dorm won the float competition.

Dianne Tyler was crowned the 1978-79 Homecoming Queen, and the Blue Hose defeated the Bulldogs of Gardner Webb. The crowning of the new Homecoming queen and announcement of her court was a highlight of the weekend's festivities. Candidates were sponsored by 19 different campus groups.

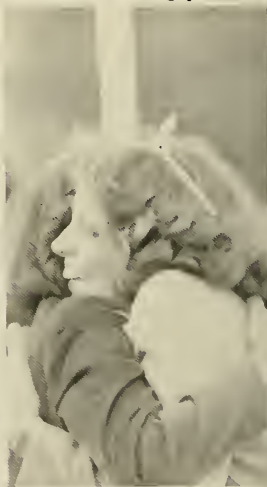

Dianne Tyler, escorted by Pete Wetherell and sponsored by the Theta Chi fraternity, was crowned by the 1977 Queen Lindsey Blevins. Dianne is an English-Religion major from Columbia, SC. The members of her court were Belinda Bullard, sponsored by Sigma Nu fraternity, and Jen Folsom, the Pi Kappa Alpha representative.

HALLOWEEN

Halloween provided PC students with a grand opportunity to display their creativity, ingenuity, and craftiness. Astounding and amusing costumes appeared from dorms to fraternity houses. Some students were even brave enough to appear in Greenville Dining Hall in costume. Belk dormitory provided a Halloween Party for all women students. Costumes were judged and prizes given for the most outstanding costumes.

The Great Pumpkin paid his annual visit to the dining hall where students paid him a quarter to go and kiss friend or foe! The money that was earned was then donated to UNICEF.

The Women's Council added to the Halloween activities by dressing in various costumes and selling candied apples in order to raise money for the spring formal that they sponsored in April.

Lady Macbeth (Karen Ruszler) watches in horror as Macbeth (Andy Millard) sees the ghost of Banquo.

PC PLAYERS FALL PRODUCTION: MACBETH

The PC Players' fall production of Shakespeare's Macbeth gave students the opportunity to be a part of or to view one of Shakespeare's greatest tragedies and added a different texture to the liberal arts education. The large cast and crew worked long and hard to turn out a very successful show which ran for six nights and was held over for a seventh. The attentive audiences and good attendance helped to make the show one of the best for the PC Players under the direction of Dr. Dale O. Rains.

Lady Macduff (Carol Connor) consoles her son (Ann Fox) after Macduff's departure.

Duncan (Mark McCallum) listens anxiously as Ross (Norman Dover) gives news of the battle.

SPEAKERS

Presbyterian College students were given the opportunity to add fabric to their public awareness by hearing several speakers who came to PC during the fall semester. As part of their campaigns, Senatorial candidates Strom Thurmond and Charles "Pug" Ravenel both came to address students and community members. Both candidates addressed themselves to the pressing concerns of the nation's economy and energy. Ravenel also expressed his concern over taxation and unemployment, while Thurmond gave attention to the nation's defense. Dr. Isaac Copeland, a PC alumnus, addressed interested students on his views of southern origins. All of these speakers were informative and interesting. The opportunity for Presbyterian College to have these important men speak on campus was both an honor and a privilege and provided an occasion on which PC students could futher their education.

Pug Ravenel asks Jan Kivora and Mindy Eisle about the issues that concern them.

MADRIGALS

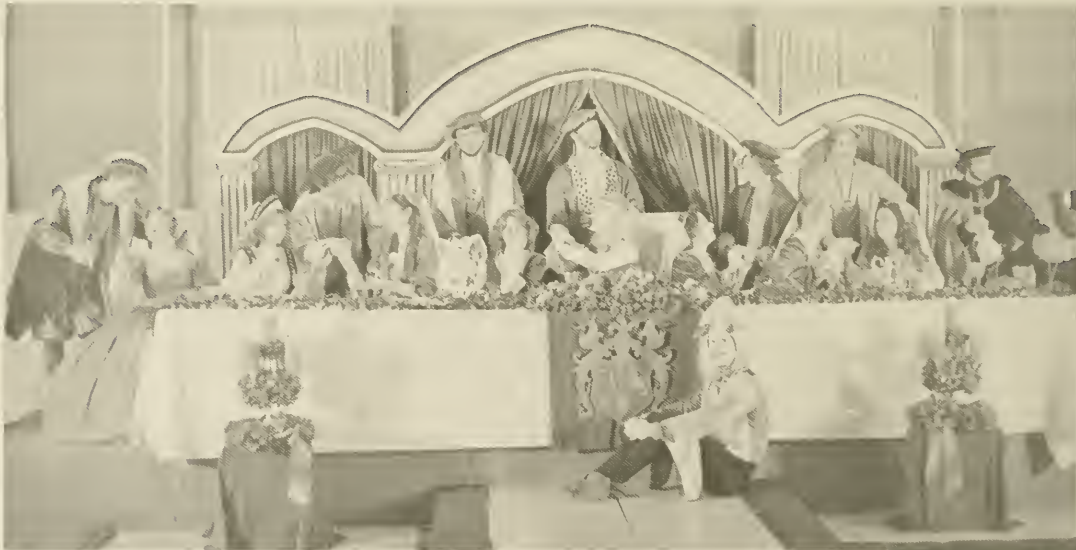

The Presbyterian College Choir presented their thirteenth annual Madrigal Dinner Concerts on December 2 and 3, under the direction of Dr. Charles T. Gaines. The Jester did an excellent job of entertaining the guests along with the Minstrels who performed the preconcert music during the medieval dinner. The main concert was performed by the Madrigal Singers, Morris Dancers, Jester, Magician, and several Minstrels.

The entire choir works extremely hard in order to present the Madrigal Dinner Concerts each year. The Madrigal Troupe spent many hours preparing music, dances, and other entertainment. This year several members of the Madrigal Singers performed in new costumes, which the singers themselves were responsible for having made. The choir as a whole was responsible for publicity, reservations, set, decoration, and the serving of the meal. Recognition also goes to Mr. Powell and his staff for their marvelous contribution in preparing the meal.

The Madrigal Troupe performed not only at PC but also for the Laurens County schools.

CHRISTMAS

Christmas 1978 was a time when the various threads of PC life seemed to become more closely knit than before. The Christmas spirit prevailed even though gloomy weather and exam-time doldrums. The Weersings' tea, open houses with door decorations, angel-mortal week in the women's dorms, Christmas parties, carolling, and the beautiful candlelight communion service all added to the overall feeling of brotherhood and goodwill which was especially evident in the holiday of 1978.

WINTER CONFERENCE

This year's Winter Conference held at Bethelwoods Retreat was an interesting and rewarding one. The topic of discussion for the weekend was Human Sexuality. Dr. W.D. White, a professor of English and Religion at St. Andrew's Presbyterian College in Lauringburg, N.C., was the speaker. Dr. White had the group of fifty-six students and faculty members divide into eight groups of seven each to discuss different topics concerning human sexuality. Among the topics discussed were death, homosexuality, differences between human beings and animals, and similarities between males and females. Various opinions emerged as the groups came together and shared their conclusions with each other. The weekend was also filled with recreation.

Saturday night a square dance was followed by an ice-cream orgy! The weekend of singing, recreation, and sharing ended with a Sunday morning worship service led by Dr. White. Dr. White made quite an impression on the students he met. Always open to conversation, he was often seen talking with the students. Although opinions varied, conversations developed smoothly and openly. People spoke freely and honestly, listening intently to what was said.

After the retreat, Dr. White came to P.C. and spoke on "Sexism in Black American Literature." He presented a second lecture as part of the Staley Lecture Series. The topic for this lecture was "Essential Wedded Love in Milton's Paradise Lost."

FINE ARTS EVENTS

The concerts and other cultural activities which were presented at Presbyterian College during 1978-79 were diverse in nature but always entertaining.

The Atlanta Ballet's performance enriched the lives of all who attended. The group also performed an assembly program entitled "A History of Dance" for those students who were interested.

The concerts of the Presbyterian College choir were a treat for everyone who attended. This year the choir gave two concerts, one each semester. These concerts gave all of the Presbyterian College community the chance to hear and appreciate the results of the hard work the choir does in preparation for their performances.

The spring semester brought a performance of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet by the National Players, the longest running theatrical repertory touring company in America. Their excellent performance of this tragic story of young love provided a great evening of entertainment for the crowd in Belk Auditorium.

DANCES

The many dances which were sponsored by various campus organizations gave extra flair to campus activities throughout the year.

The Freshman mixer disco and the Welcome Back dance featuring Janice provided students with a great opportunity to mix, mingle, and party with their fellow students. Greenville Dining hall was the setting for these two "getting-acquainted" dances as well as for other dances during the year.

Later in the fall semester, IFC and Circle K so-sponsored a Disco for Dystrophy at the Armory to raise money.

Second semester began its activities with the Mid-winter Dance with Sugarcreek. Bad weather and a power failure did not take away from the crowd's enjoyment. The next dance of the new year was the annual Military Ball where everyone partied to the music of the Spontanies. The IFC dance and the first annual Women's Council formal which featured Seventh of May were the springtime preliminaries for Spring Swing. This last school-sponsored dance of the year spotlighted the Dixie Dregs and helped make Spring Swing successful again.

GAULT SAYS BEST EVER

Complementing a persistent offense with the stingiest defensive unit in the SAC-8 conference, the 1978 Battlin' Blue Hose rolled to an 8-2-1 record and the conference co-championship. Cally Gault's team opened the year with only four returning starters on offense, but, gaining momentum as the season progressed, the offensive unit, led by Kodak All-American tackle Roy Walker and SAC-8 conference "Player of the Year," Jimmy Spence, scored 247 points and piled up 3602 total yards. The defensive squad permitted less than 12 points a game and gave the offense good field position throughout the season.

The Hose opened the year with a contest against conference opponent Mars Hill. PC's victory was the first opening game win for a PC football team in six years. Placekicker Larry Bridges made the difference as his dramatic 32-yard field goal with only 14 seconds left sealed Lion's fate.

Warm sea breezes blew into Citadel's stadium along with nearly half of the PC student body, who had come to cheer the Blue Hose against the Bulldogs. Costly turnovers in the second half, however, spoiled the crowd's expectations and gave the Citadel the victory.

CONFERENCE CHAMPIONS

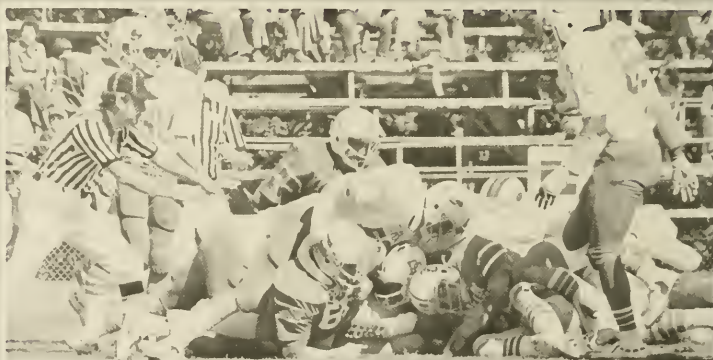

Back on Blue turf, the Mighty Hose ran rampant over the Catawba Indians to the pleasure of the Youth Day crowd. The next week the Blue Hose charged into Elon Stadium hot for Christian blood, but met with stiff competition from a fired-up Elon Squad, but PC salvaged a dramatic tie in the game's closing minutes.

Following a narrow Homecoming victory over Gardner-Webb, PC's offense exploded for five touchdowns against the outmanned Carson Newman Eagles. Presbyterian's efforts were rewarded with a number 15 ranking in the NAIA poll, putting the Hose right on track for their annual clash with Newberry.

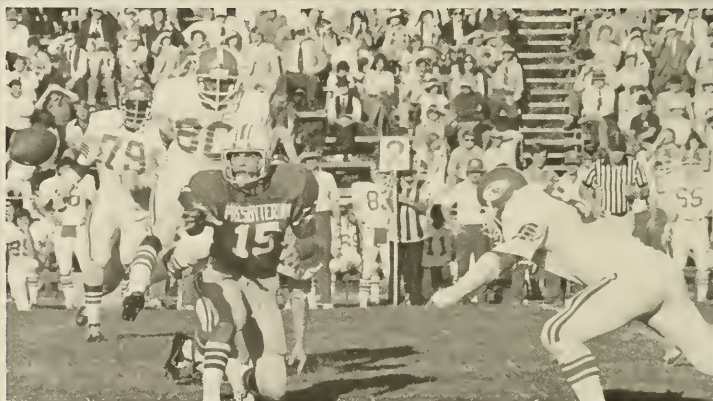

Holding a Turkey Day crowd of several thousand vocal rooters, Bailey Stadium provided the setting for the traditional Bronze Derby classic between PC and Newberry. Although the Indians held an emotional edge under first-year coach Reed Charpia, the Blue Hose dominated the contest in every aspect, salting away a share of the conference championship and an 8-2-1 season. Coaches Cally Gault, Bob Strock, John Perry, Elliott Poss, and Wayne Renwick deserved a maximum of praise from all PC fans for their excellent job of directing the Blue Hose to their best record in nearly 20 years.

SPIKE AT STATE

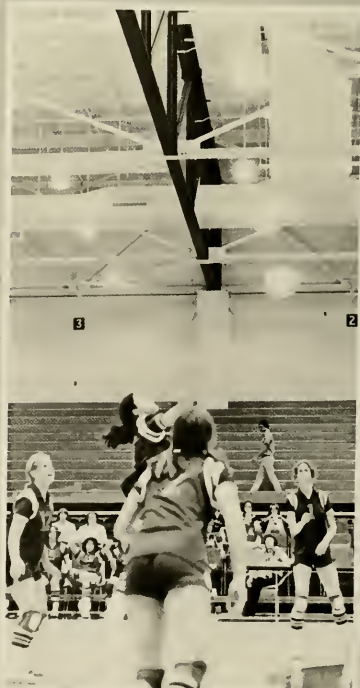

Under the direction of coach Clovis Simmons, the women's varsity volleyball team struggled through a frustrating season highlighted by the squad's strong showing in the state tournament. As members of the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, the majority of PC's opponents had established programs. Thus, the squad's record of three wins and nineteen losses failed to reflect the tenacity and hard work that the women exhibited throughout the season. Team captain Deb Smead contributed valuable floor-play leadership, while Virginia Henderson provided most of the offensive punch with her intimidating spikes. Henderson noted: "Several of our matches went to three games, but inexperience especially on the road, hurt us in tight situations." In the state tournament, the girls defeated the highly regarded Converse squad before losing to Central Wesleyan. The Presbyterian women closed out their season with yet another three-game loss to the tournament's number one seed USC-Aiken. With all but one starter to return, the women's volleyball team has the potential to become a state contender in the future.

YOUNG SQUAD SHOWS PROMISE

Despite a disappointing 3-12 record, soccer coach Larry Burch termed the 1978 season a "positive" one for his players. The kickers, while not noted for their victories, nevertheless showed a great deal of enthusiasm and future promise in their improvement as the season progressed. The mark of the recently-launched sport at Presbyterian proved to be inexperience, but seniors Bruce Wismer and Erik Seifert provided the bulk of the leadership, while sophomore Keith Womack and freshman Keith Nicosia gained seasoning which should help the team in future seasons. Fan support for the kickers remained strong throughout the season, as the Blue Hose rooters made a special effort to congregate at the Ponderosa for the late-afternoon matches.

CAGERS EXCEED EXPECTATIONS

Boasting a young squad of five freshmen, two sophomores, and six juniors, the PC cagers relied on a superior bench and outstanding shooting ability to post an impressive record. A powerful inside game led by John Turner and Clark Sinclair and the outside shooting of Jim Watson and George Crippen combined with the defense to move the Hose into contention for the NAIA District Six Conference tournament. The thirteen-member team selected Watson and Crippen as co-captains.

The cagers rallied from a 4-6 pre-Christmas slump with good showings in two holiday tournaments. They finished second in the Kiwanis Christmas Tournament, as Marshall Little's play sealed a win over Allen. Watson's tournament play earned him a berth on the All-Tournament team. Shooting with uncanny accuracy from the top of the key, Watson sparked the Hose to another second place in the New Year's Classic at P.C., and his efforts named Watson the Classic's Most Valuable Player.

SECOND SEASON A WINNER

An enthusiastic women's basketball team dominated by freshmen lent a touch of class to the Templeton PE Center as the squad compiled a much better record than had been expected of them. Coach Randy Randall, along with assistant Bruce Wismer, directed the girls through a 23-game schedule including such teams as the University of Georgia, Furman, Newberry, and Erskine. Randall pointed out that despite the inexperience inherent in a starting lineup composed of four freshmen and one senior, "We are quick and have offensive ability, with the ability to go inside or outside. The girls are good shooters. They have basketball sense." Lee King, Nancy Wardlaw, and Lynn Hope provided the bulk of the offensive punch, while Wardlaw also pulled in a majority of the rebounds. Senior Susie Hall, along with Mary Kay Campbell and Lynn Woods, provided coolheaded floor leadership.

SCHOOL SPIRIT AIDS WOMEN

Boasting what senior Ina Nelson termed "the best top six PC has had in four years," the Presbyterian women's tennis team rode a talented blend of veteran seniors and seasoned underclassmen to a successful record in state competition. The season starting on February 27th got off to a rocky start against major college powerhouses USC, Clemson, and Georgia, but rousing victories over opponents within the district gave the fans who thronged to the women's matches beside the Templeton PE Center plenty to cheer about.

Coach Richard McKee looked to court leadership from Sally Walker and Ina Nelson, although sophomores Lynn Barton, Adair Allen, Tracy Jones, and freshman Lee King helped provide the victories. Although the netters traveled to several away-matches in the cramped PC activities bus, many of the matches were held at home before all the Presbyterian students who lent a touch of school spirit to a fine season.

TALENTED FRESHMEN REPLACE LOSSES

Although the men's tennis team lost two of its top players from the year which they won the District Six Championship and placed seventh nationally in the NAIA national rankings, team captain Bobby McKee felt confident about the team's chances before the start of the spring season: "We have a completely different atmosphere this year, with several talented freshmen to replace our losses."

The team began its season in the fall with a fifth-place finish in the South Carolina state tournament against such national tennis powers as USC and Clemson. The netters closed out their fall schedule with a record of 9-4; but more important, the freshmen including Tim Riddle and Robert Register picked up valuable tournament experience which helped them prepare for the extremely tough District Six opposition.

Number one singles player Bobby McKee demonstrates the form that made him an Honorable Mention All-American.

Over the winter, the team got a headstart on the opposition by running in the gym and going through agility drills. Coach Richard McKee's insistence on physical conditioning paid off in the spring semester schedule which included Penn State, Duke, and Virginia. Within the District, lower-state teams Coastal, Carolina, and the College of Charleston provided the toughest competition. The squad's traditional road trip to Florida proved to be more than a week of fun in the sun, as Flagler and Rollins gave the team tough opposition. Throughout the year the team's blend of senior leadership and freshman potential promised to continue the long tradition of Presbyterian tennis excellence.

SWEAR AND SWEAT

Despite the fact that their schedule included such major powers as Clemson, USC, and Furman, The Presbyterian golf team rode a combination of experience and coolness under pressure to an impressive record under Coach John Perry. His winter training schedule, including an intra-squad match play round-robin in February, helped the squad prepare for a long spring of competition.

Beginning competition March 1, seniors Monty Todd and Warren Finney posted strong performances in the Edisto Golf Classic. Playing their home matches at the Lakeside Country Club in Laurens, the linksmen sweated through several close matches before closing the season at the Regional Tournament held at Barnwell in April.

As with the golfers, the strength of the track team lay in experience. Allen Gaston, Butch Hills, and Chuck Jordan's leadership in the field events vaulted the squad into contention for the regional championship. The cindermen's season was highlighted by the Davidson Relays and the District Six tournament.

INTRAMURALS

Intramurals provided an exciting alternative to either books or beer for the more than sixty percent of the student body who signed up for athletic competitions ranging from a relatively non-strenuous poolmatch to an exhausting afternoon of flag football. As always, the focal point of the intramural season was the men's football schedule. The Kappa Alphas and Theta Chis dominated throughout the season, but the faster, more alert defense of the KAs proved to be the key to their victory and to the season championship.

While the men were playing football, the women concentrated on horseshoes, bowling, and tennis.

As the year progressed into winter, volleyball and basketball took precedence, although swimming, ping-pong, and racquetball were also offered. In volleyball as in football, the KAs took first place in men's A-league competition, heading a group of 27 teams, while PC's Finest led the way among the ten women's teams. Pamoja and KA, along with BFW, were the leading contenders as the basketball season opened.

PERSONALITIES

President
MARC C. WEERSING

Serving his last year as president, Dr. Marc C. Weersing has been at PC since 1963. He received a BA in ancient languages and education from Calvin College in Michigan and later attended Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Georgia. Before assuming the office of president, Dr. Weersing served 25 years as a minister in the Presbyterian Church. He was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Spartanburg and is now a member of the Presbytery of the Piedmont. During his 15 years at PC, Dr. Weersing has worked to expand the student body, faculty, and facilities. When taking time out from his work, he enjoys playing golf, working with his coin collection, and reading books, particularly on history, theology, and Biblical interpretation.

Dean of Students JOSEPH O. NIXON

Joseph O. Nixon assumed the position of Dean of Students in January of 1977. He received a BA in Christian Education at PC and was a member of the football team. Two years after graduation, he returned to PC to serve as Assistant Football and Track Coach, and later became Director of Admissions. As Dean of Students, his supervisory roles include student services, physical security, switchboard, orientation, and discipline. He assists the Student Government Association, Judicial Council, Inter-Fraternity Council, and Men's Council. In addition to the time he devotes to students, Nixon is active in community life through the United Way, the YMCA, First Presbyterian Church, and the Rotary Club. His sports interests include tennis, golf, handball, and racketball. An avid bridge fan, he has been known to play until 4:00 a.m.

Academic Dean DR. DONALD A. KING

Assuming the post of Academic Dean this year, Dr. Donald A. King came to PC from Mississippi College for Women, where he served as Professor of Mathematics, acting head of the Department of Mathematics, and later as Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences. Previously, he was an Assistant Professor of Mathematics at Clemson. At PC he is responsible for the academic program, the library, and the Offices of Admissions and Registrar. King is interested in various sports, railroad-ing, and bridge.

Associate Dean of Students
MARION F. HILL

Marion F. Hill served PC as Dean of Women from 1964-77 when she assumed her present position as Associate Dean of Students. Her duties include many student services as well as supervising women's activities and organizations. Ms. Hill received her BA in French at Belhaven College and her Masters in Administration of Higher Education at George Peabody College. Ms. Hill enjoys entertaining the women students in her home and relaxes by doing needlework or reading historical novels and biographies.

Director of Development
ROBERT O. McCASLIN

The Director of Development, Robert O. McCaslin, is responsible for raising funds for scholarships and new buildings and for planning the renovation of old campus buildings. The office raises funds through gifts, trusts, and bequests to the college. Before coming to PC in 1970, McCaslin worked with Ketchum, Inc., a professional fund raising council. McCaslin has received a BA and ThB, and he was also awarded a D.D. from Sterling College.

Development
JAMES F. DICKENSON

As Assistant Director of Development, James F. Dickenson aids in fund-raising promotions and campus development. He earned a BA from UKy and a BD from Union. Before coming to PC in 1975, Dickenson was the Executive Coordinator of the Synod of the Southeast. His hobbies include existing light photography.

Business Manager and Treasurer
G. EDWARD CAMPBELL

G. Edward Campbell, PC's Business Manager and Treasurer, has served in this capacity since 1958. He received a BA in Math and Business Administration from PC, and before he returned to PC as Registrar, Campbell served in the US Army. Locally, he has served on the Chamber of Commerce, the United Way of Greater Clinton, as president of the Kiwanis Club, and as chairman of the Clinton Planning Commission. Campbell's interests include hunting, fishing, traveling, and various sports.

Alumni and College Relations
BEN HAY HAMMET

As Director of Alumni and College Relations, Ben Hay Hammet is responsible for the Annual Giving Program, locating alumni, planning special events, providing alumni services including trips abroad, and recruiting students through alumni and the Junior Fellows program. A PC graduate, he received a BJ degree from UMO before working with the International News Service. Currently, Hammet edits The Presbyterian College Report and various other publications for alumni and friends of the college. Hammet is a member of the Kiwanis Club and enjoys travel, golf, and reading.

Registrar
ROSLYN C. MARTIN

Roslyn C. Martin received her BA from Winthrop College and came to PC soon after. As registrar, she has acquired the longest tenure of any faculty or administration member. Her interests include travel, camping, music, and her children. As registrar, she is responsible for all student records and for a great part of the commencement exercises.

Student Aid and Placement
JOHN P. DANILUK

John P. Daniluk has served PC as Director of Student Aid and Placement for 14 years. Before joining the PC staff he attended PC, Piedmont Tech, and served in the US Army. His responsibilities at PC include helping students finance their education and aiding graduates in their search for employment. When taking time to relax, Daniluk enjoys sailing his boat at Lake Greenwood, fishing in farm ponds, and spending time with his family.

Director of Admissions and Records
WILLIAM K. JACKSON

For William K. Jackson, 1978-79 was his second year as Director of Admissions at PC. He earned his BS and MS from USC, and he is currently a candidate for his PhD in Higher Education. During his 11 years at PC, his responsibilities have included Assistant Academic Dean, Director of Records, and Assistant Professor of Physics. Jackson works to present PC in an effective way to prospective students. His leisure time is spent with his family, playing golf, and reading books by Alan Drury.

Infirmary Supervisor MARY W. EPTING

Mary W. Epting, the resident nurse at PC since 1971, is in charge of the infirmary. When she is not administering care to PC students, she enjoys reading and knitting. She received her training at Bailey Memorial Hospital.

Admissions Counselors

James L. McFadyen and Virginia L. Crocker serve PC as Admissions Counselors, traveling to four states to recruit students. McFadyen graduated from PC in 1975, earning a BS in Business Management. Ms. Crocker received a BA from Columbia College before assuming her position at PC. She is presently serving in the South Carolina House of Representatives.

Director of Student Activities RANDY RANDALL

C.H. "Randy" Randall III received a BS from PC in Psychology and returned as Director of Student Activities after spending a year at UGA. A sports enthusiast, Randall coaches the women's basketball team, and participates in faculty volleyball. His duties include intramurals and student entertainment. His own musical tastes range from heavy-metal rock to Streisand and Rondstadt.

Chaplain ARTHUR S. GATEWOOD

As college chaplain, Arthur S. Gatewood serves as pastor to students, faculty, and staff; he leads college worship services and coordinates the student volunteer service program. He received his BA in English from St. Andrews Presbyterian College and his MD from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. He is an officer of the Local Ministerial Association and is also active in the Presbyterian Synod and General Assembly. His interests include carpentry, camping, tennis, and family outings.

Dining Hall

L. Vernon Powell, Director of Food Services, is assisted by Eva Mills and John Mabry. Powell returned to PC in 1977; he had previously served in the same capacity from 1947-1960. Powell received his AA from North Greenville Tech. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, and he is chairman of the Circle K Committee. He enjoys fishing, golfing, and gardening.

Plant Superintendent OREN F. BEATY

As Maintenance Supervisor, Oren F. Beaty supervises a department of 34 workers. He has held this position for 30 years. When not working at PC, Beaty enjoys fishing, football, and spending time with his family.

Resident Counselors

The PC dorm mothers are important to the dorm life of the women students. Bailey's Gladys N. Harvey came to PC in 1972. She enjoys taking time to go fishing and boating at Lake Greenwood. Madelyn A. Dula has been the dorm mother for Belk Hall since 1975. She likes to travel, read, and do various types of handwork. Mildred C. Smith, dorm mother of Clinton Hall since 1975, uses her bridge skills to teach a bridge class.

Director of Computer Operations WILLIAM S. CANNON

William S. Cannon supervises the many computer programs that keep PC functioning properly. Students use PC's mini-computer and Clinton Mills' computer is used in administrative processing. Cannon received a BS from Wofford in Math and Physics and a MS from UFla. In addition to his PC responsibilities, Cannon is press representative for the Clinchfield R.R.

Faculty Secretary

Ann Pitts Martin

Secretaries

Security

Security, the public safety department at PC, is responsible for protection of property and the college community. R. Gray Mason, chief of security, has been at PC since 1974. He is accredited by both the GBI and S.C. Law Enforcement Division. Mason enjoys boating, skiing, and other water sports.

Head Librarian
DR. LENNART PEARSON

Dr. Lennart Pearson received his BA from Wheaton College. He earned both his ThM and DM degrees from Union and His MSLS from UNC. He served as a pastor in Virginia for five years, then as assistant librarian at Union Theological Seminary. In addition to his duties as librarian, he teaches Old and New Testament Survey courses. In his spare time Dr. Pearson enjoys calligraphy, printing, book design, and reading such authors as C.S. Lewis and Tolkien.

LIBRARY

The library staff, under the able leadership of Dr. Lennart Pearson, assists students daily in solving problems of study and research. PC is fortunate to have a library staff which works to coordinate library instruction with the professors in their courses. Librarians Pearson and Presseau now offer a course in techniques and skills for utilizing library facilities.

Jane Presseau, Student Services Librarian and Julie Robinson, Student Library Worker.

Anne Clark, Marion Prater, Gloria Wysor, Diane Yarborough, and Mary Stallworth.

Chairman
JANE P. HOLT

Jane P. Holt, acting as chairman of the Biology Department, has been at PC since 1967. She received her BS from Montreat College and her MS in Biology with specialization in embryology from Emory. She is particularly interested in the study of birds and enjoys natural photography when the time is available. Other activities which Ms. Holt enjoys include travel in the US and abroad as well as various crafts.

BIOLOGY

The philosophy of the department of Biology is based on the belief that the undergraduate background in biology should be broad. Students in the department have opportunities to study nearby mountain, piedmont, and ocean environments as well as tropical and marine environments. J. Michael Henson joined the department this year.

Henson

Dr. Fredrick C. James

Judith A. Burns

Dr. Robert Hudson

Ed Gouge

Dr. Randolph B. Huff

CHEMISTRY

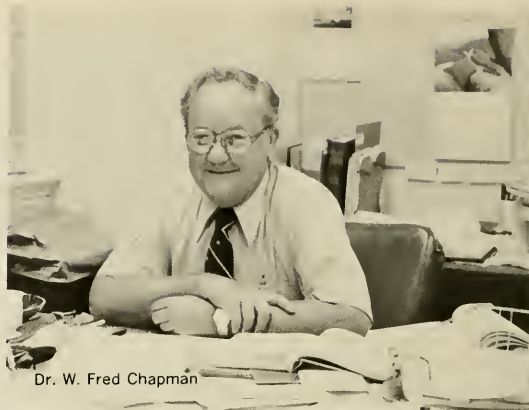

The Chemistry Department provides a basic course emphasizing the scientific method and a balanced approach to fact, theory, and application for science and non-science majors. The other courses necessary for Chemistry majors, pre-med students, and other science majors are also provided. Instruments are used whenever they fit naturally into the laboratory work. Lab work is designed to develop the student's laboratory technique, his powers of observation, and his ability to draw conclusions.

Chairman DR. K. NOLAN CARTER

Before coming to PC 27 years ago to head the Department of Chemistry, Dr. K. Nolan Carter earned both his MS and PhD degrees from Vanderbilt University. In addition to his full teaching load, Carter has pursued a variety of research interests. The results of this work have been published in professional journals and presented at meetings of professional societies. His interest in astronomy led him to attend and photograph two total eclipses of the sun. He enjoys hand-set-type printing in his spare time, and, for relaxation, Carter enjoys reading books by the British author P.G. Wodehouse, whose humor he finds appealing.

The Department of Economics and Business Administration offers a student the opportunity of a background in business within the framework of a liberal arts education. The instructional approach is an analytical one. Requiring a full year of basic economics, accounting, and a course in statistics for the majors in the department, particular emphasis is given to the development of the decision-making ability on the part of the student. Dr. W. Fred Chapman returned to the department this year after serving PC as Academic Dean.

Dr. W. Fred Chapman

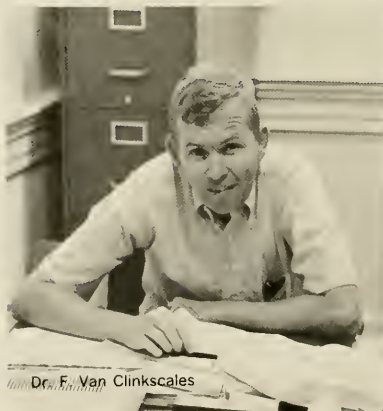

ECONOMICS - BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Chairman DR. CARL J. ARNOLD

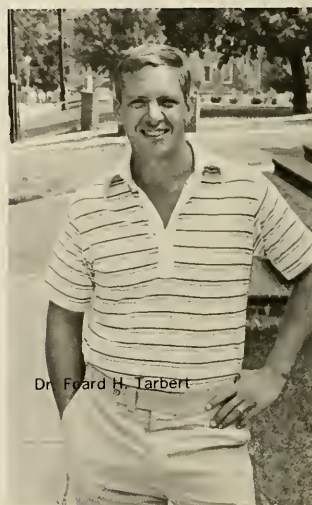

Dr. Carl J. Arnold, chairman of the Economics and Business Administration Department, came to PC with a BS and MS from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Dairy Marketing and a PhD in Agricultural Economics from Michigan State. Arnold enjoys most spectator sports as well as golfing and fishing. When taking time for relaxation, he enjoys reading the Wall Street Journal and books on outdoor life.

Louis Eckstein

Dr. F. Van Clinkscales

Dr. Ford H. Tarbert

Chairman
DR. DOROTHY P. BRANDT

Before joining the Education Department 12 years ago, Dr. Dorothy Brandt taught in an elementary school and was a teacher's assistant at the University of Texas. She received her BS from Newberry College and earned both her MEd and PhD from the Univ. of Texas. She is currently serving as Elementary Consultant for Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and is Vice Chairman of the Board at Newberry. She is involved in the Lutheran Church and serves as Vice Chairman of the Lutheran Church Council and is on the committee of the Lutheran Church of America. Her leisure activities include sewing, cross stitching, cooking, and learning to play bridge.

EDUCATION SPECIAL ED

Kenneth E. Creel

Three programs in Elementary Education, Special Education, and Secondary Education are offered by the Department of Education. The strength of the department lies in the varied program of general education requirements in the first two years and the extensive teaching experience provided for both elementary and special education majors. The secondary education major is required to elect an academic major with specified education courses required for certification. This gives him more subject-matter background than other types of education programs require.

Dr. Robert A. Hill

ENGLISH

The courses offered by the Presbyterian College English department are designed to achieve two major goals: to train students in effective use of the English language and to help students attain a critical appreciation of literature. PC's English department provides varied courses for the enlightenment of non-majors and majors alike. The department also prepares its majors for teaching, for graduate or professional studies, and for a variety of careers based on a liberal humanities background.

Chairman
DR. NEAL B. PRATER

In his eighteenth year at Presbyterian College, Dr. Neal B. Prater chairs the English department and is the Charles A. Dana Professor of English. Prater received his BA degree from Westminster College and his MA and PhD degrees from Vanderbilt University. Dr. Prater serves as vestryman of All Saints' Episcopal Church in Clinton.

FINE ARTS

The Fine Arts Department offers students a major in Fine Arts with either Art, Drama, or Music emphasis as well as a separate Music major. The department offers students and faculty members opportunities to enjoy a variety of shows, plays, and concerts. This year Ms. Elga Jones joined the Fine Arts Department as instructor of voice.

Dr. Dale C. Davis

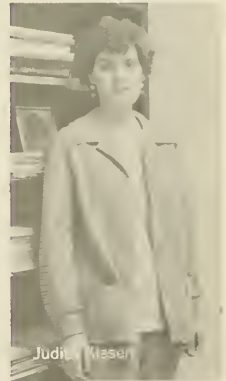

Robert Jolly

Elga Jones

Chairman DR. CHARLES T. GAINES

Dr. Charles T. Gaines received his BMEd and MM degrees from Illinois Wesleyan University and his DSM degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York. He came to PC in 1965 and has served as conductor of the PC Choir, Chairman of the Fine Arts Department, and Professor of Music. He organized the Madrigal Singers, creating one of PC's most delightful annual events. In addition to his PC duties, Dr. Gaines is active in the Laurens County Community Concerts, Laurens County Arts Council, and the Laurens County Community Chorale. He presently serves as the Director of Music at the First Presbyterian Church of Greenwood.

Judith Massey

Robert Jolly

HISTORY-POLITICAL SCIENCE

The department of History and Political Science instructs students in the history, values, cultures, and lifestyles of people in their own country and in others. Their motto, "Our task is to prepare the students not for something, but for anything," expresses their desire to prepare students to live in a changing world. The new major in Political Studies is designed to offer courses from a variety of areas, creating a cross-disciplinary approach to the study of political phenomena.

James H. Coker

Dr. David C. Needham

Robert G. Anderson

Chairman
DR. RONALD D. BURNSIDE

Dr. Ronald D. Burnside received his BA from Wabash College in Indiana, his home state. He earned both his MA and PhD from Indiana University and served 4 years in the Marine Corps before joining the History-Political Science Department at PC. Burnside enjoys many sports including jogging, handball, racketball, and volleyball. He displays his musical talents in playing the cello.

MATH-PHYSICS

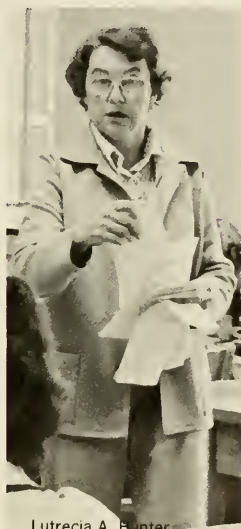

Dr. William W. Yarborough

The department of Math-Physics strives to work effectively with all its students — those meeting requirements for other majors as well as its own majors. Looking to the near future, the department tentatively plans to develop a separate major in Physics. As an addition to the Math department, Dr. James Clark joined the faculty this year.

Chairman DR. EUGENE W. WOMBLE

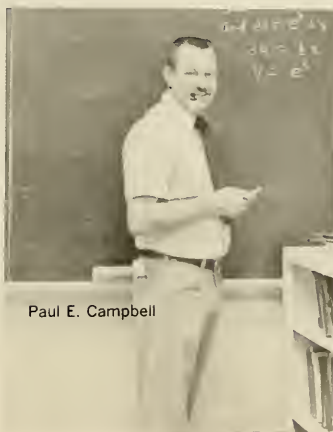

Dr. Eugene W. Womble, chairman of the department of Math-Physics, has been a part of the PC faculty for nine years. After receiving his Masters from UNC and his PhD from the University of Oklahoma, he served on the faculty of Wake Forest and Pfeiffer College. When not involved in activities on campus, Dr. Womble enjoys various outdoor recreations. He has participated in six 100-mile biking expeditions over the past five years. He also plays on the faculty volleyball team. Backpacking, camping, and canoeing are among his favorite vacation activities.

Lutrecia A. Hunter

Dr. James Clark

Paul E. Campbell

MILITARY SCIENCE

The Department of Military Science, emphasizes leadership, self-reliance, and self-discipline. ROTC also prepares students for any future by complementing all of the other academic areas and by providing an opportunity for service to the country. New skills in management, communication, first aid, and marksmanship enriched the college while opening new options.

MSG George E. Richards

SSG White
SGM [Name]

Maj. Richard Whiteside and Mrs. Marguerite Plowden

Chairman LTC. RAYMOND H. ANDREWS

Lt. Col. Raymond H. Andrews, chairman of the Military Science Department, received his BA from Stetson and his MA from Pepperdine. After graduation, he entered the Field Artillery Branch of the US Army and specialized in aviation. He commanded a helicopter company in Viet Nam and later graduated from the Army Command in General Staff College. In Clinton, Andrews is the choir director and a deacon in the Calvary Baptist Church.

The Modern Foreign Language Department offers only one on-campus major, French, but a student may major in a Spanish, German, or a combination of two languages if he is prepared to study abroad. PC is a cooperating institution with Central College, which has established various programs of study in France, Spain, Germany, and Austria. The Modern Languages Department encourages majors in French to complete another major as well, enhancing their chances for interesting foreign or bilingual career opportunities.

MODERN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Chairman
DR. YVONNE T. KING

Dr. Yvonne T. King received both her BA and her PhD from the University of Reading in England. She has also studied at the University of Strasbourg and in Paris with a French Government scholarship. Dr. King spends her spare time traveling, reading, listening to music, or attending the theater. She is also a human-interest photography enthusiast.

The Physical Education Department emphasizes the importance of lifetime sports to its students. To meet general education requirements, students participate in tennis, golf, archery, and physical fitness. Upper-level courses in coaching, recreation, health, and the principles of PE are also available for those students interested in receiving an athletic coaching minor or a Physical Education minor.

Tom Burch and Robert Snook

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Chairman CALLY GAULT

C.F. "Cally" Gault received his BA from PC in History and his MEd from USC. While a student at PC, he played varsity football, baseball, and basketball. Before assuming the position of Athletic Director and head football coach of PC in 1963, Gault served as coach in both North Augusta and Mullins, SC. In addition to his enthusiasm for sports, he has musical talents which he uses to sing in the First Presbyterian Church choir and to play the guitar and banjo.

Tom Hammet and Richard McKee

John Perry, Pat Pass, and Wayne Renwick

Chairman DR. CLAUDE H. COOLER

Dr. Claude H. Cooler, chairman of the Psychology Department, has been at PC since 1963. Receiving his MS from USC and PhD from FSU, Cooler has done post-doctorate work at the University of Southern Mississippi. He is a member of numerous professional organizations including APA, SCPA, and SCAPGA. Cooler's broad interests have led him to become a licensed land surveyor and percolation tests technician. Most of his time for relaxation is spent at Lake Greenwood either boating or simply enjoying the scenery.

PSYCHOLOGY

The Psychology Department aims to help students develop a greater understanding of the behavior and motivations of others as well as a more in-depth self-awareness. Because psychological principles may be used in all acts of behavior and communications and in relating to others in every type of environment, Psychology majors may be found working in many places. Keith Stewart and James Ferguson joined the department in the spring semester as part-time faculty.

Dr. Marion T. Gaines

Dr. George Ramsey

Thomas A. Stallworth

Chairman DR. LEWIS S. HAY

After receiving his BA in mathematics from PC, Dr. Lewis S. Hay worked in the oil business for a few years before pursuing his theological studies. He earned his BD from Columbia Theological Seminary, his ThM from Princeton Seminary, and his PhD from Emory University before returning to teach in the Religion and Philosophy Department in 1955. Outside of his school responsibilities, Hay is a Falcon fan, enjoys tennis, and likes to tinker with his old MG.

religion - philosophy

The Religion-Philosophy Department works to integrate faith and learning in a way that is both intellectually responsible and morally true. Old Testament and New Testament Survey are required of all regularly enrolled students at PC. Upper-level courses include several types — Biblical studies, philosophy, doctrine, church history, and Christian education. Religion majors work in many different environments although most of them plan some kind of church-related vocation.

The Sociology major receives some grounding in the nature of the society of which he is a part. He learns something about what holds people together and some of the reasons why society occasionally seems to come apart. He also receives preparation to undertake advanced study in various fields of study. Regardless of career choice, the major in Sociology is intended to prepare the student for a life of responsible service in his church and his society.

SOCIOLOGY

DR. TED L. HUNTER

Dr. Ted L. Hunter, chairman of the Sociology Department, received his MA from UNC with a major in Sociology and a minor in Psychology. He earned his PhD from UGA after writing a dissertation on "Premarital Sexual Standards in a Religiously Conservative College." Hunter is the advisor to the PC chapter of the Alston Wilkes Society in addition to his active membership in the local and State Alston Wilkes Society. His interests range from Criminology to bicycle repair and conditioning.

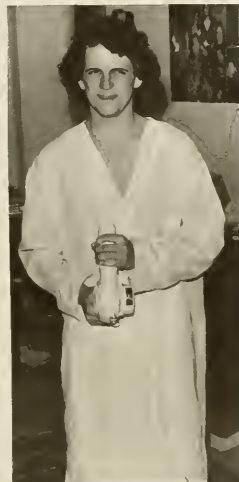

Dr. David R. Meentemeyer

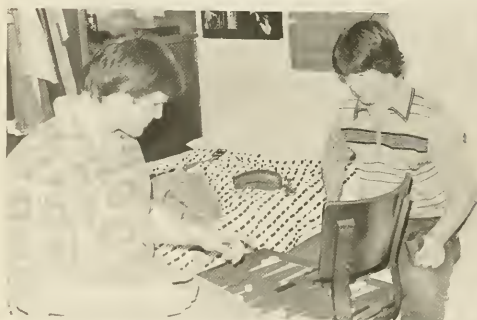

PERSONALITIES

The personalities of Presbyterian College revolve around more than just classes and books. In addition to their work and study, the faculty, staff, and students of PC are involved in a variety of extra-curricular activities on campus. The interaction between the members of the campus community add color and pattern to each of our tartans. These personalities work together to sponsor service projects in the community, to make improvements in campus life, and to meet campus needs through various committees and organizations. Supporting the Blue Hose at sports events is just one of the many ways the faculty, staff, and students participate in campus life.

Various settings at PC give places for interaction between members of the campus community. The campus library provides not only a place to study and find helpful resources for classes but also a place for meetings and talking with friends. Although seldom frequented by a large portion of the faculty and staff, the dormitories and cafeteria are more to PC students than places to sleep and eat. Meals provide a break from studying and an opportunity to gripe about the food, talk about the latest basketball game, make plans for a big weekend, and general fun with an occasional friendly ice fight now and then. A lot of the fun extends to the dormitories where more people join in. Birthday parties, water and baby powder fights, long goof-off and pig-out sessions, and an occasional outburst of fire crackers constitute only a part of the varied activities that come from living in a dorm. At least once a semester, firecrackers accompany the new "tradition" of exam-time paper rolls. All in all, campus life provides endless excitement and diversity for PC's constituents.

WHO'S WHO

AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

Each fall a select group of students are honored by selection to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The honor is awarded yearly to students who display excellence in academics, community service, leadership ability, and future potential. Selection to Who's Who also gives the nominee the privilege of having his college biography published in the annual publication.

The students selected from PC were active in a variety of college activities. Many were prominent in varsity sports, while others proved their worth as editors of college publications and members of the Publications Board. Some served the student body as members of the Student Assembly, Student Government Association, the Judicial Council, and various faculty committees. Among those chosen were people who were active in dramatic and musical groups. Another characteristic which was present in all of the nominees was the ability to keep up a high academic level while the students were participating in their many extracurricular activities.

SENIORS

The fabric of the lives of the seniors of 1979 has been woven on the loom of the seventies. Though the seniors were born in the fifties and grew up in the sixties, they were still too young to feel a direct impact from the events of those years. Because the seniors entered high school in the early seventies and finished college in 1979, influences of this decade have been knitted into their growth toward maturity. In some cases the fabric is finished and ready to be tailored for its role in the years to come. Others however, remain incomplete or with frayed edges yet to be trimmed before they can be utilized. But, regardless of the stage of the individuals, the seventies are largely responsible for weaving the seniors' characters thus far.

The major economic problems of the US in the 70's were inflation and shortages. With the ever-rising cost of living, Americans found it more difficult to meet expenses. Demands for higher wages and lower taxes swept the nation.

Shortages of fuel and food created world-wide difficulties. The Arab oil embargo raised America's concern for conservation and rationing threatened indulgent lifestyles. Research was begun to develop new sources of energy, and scientists probed solar and atomic energy as possible solutions.

At PC the effects of inflation and shortages were felt in the rising prices. Tuition and living expenses soared, while the budget included departmental cuts. Students endured lighting and heating cut-backs as PC adapted itself to energy shortages.

Good health and physical fitness occupied a key position as a priority of the seventies. A growing awareness of some problems of affluence — obesity, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and other related problems — stimulated many individuals to evaluate and amend their lifestyles. Changes could be seen daily in people's exercise and eating habits.

The boom in exercise took new forms which were evident on the PC campus. Students and faculty alike became involved in tennis, bicycling, swimming, racquetball, callisthenics, and, most obviously, jogging. Jogging addicts routinely don their sneakers and sweatsuits to traverse the miles of Clinton streets and the PC track. Whether at dawn or dusk, or by midnight's starlight, these enthusiasts trek their charted courses with religious fervor.

Exploiting America's new fitness consciousness, producers in the seventies assaulted consumers with diet drinks, diet candy, diet dressing, diet bread, and diet peanut butter. Greenville Dining Hall adapted itself to these trends, serving salads, soups, cottage cheese, yogurt, and skim milk. Dieting became such a major part of lifestyles that a virtually unheard-of disease related to dieting — anorexia nervosa — became a central topic of medical discussion.

More than in any previous decade, the 70's were years when women's rights came to the forefront. In 1972, Congress passed the Equal Rights Amendment which states that men and women are equal under the law, and the Educational Amendments Act which includes Title IX, barring discrimination in educational programs on the basis of sex.

To comply with Title IX, PC made many changes in policies affecting dorm life and varsity sports. In 1976 the obsolete rules concerning signing "in" and "out" for dates and the mandatory curfew for freshman women were dropped. In sports PC has added three varsity sports for women — tennis, volleyball, and basketball, as well as the coeducational rifle team.

The motion picture industry had a popularity and financial rejuvenation during the seventies. Trends were evident but varied, drawing increasing numbers of people to the theaters.

Disaster movies flourished, offering Americans escape from problems with such flicks as The Poseidon Adventure, The Towering Inferno, Earthquake, and Alphart. Other people were entertained by movies portraying young love, such as The Way We Were, A Star Is Born, and Love Story. Violence, sex, and mystery were available in thrillers including The French Connection, Serpico, and Murder on the Orient Express. Traditional war movies retained a position of prominence with Tora, Tora, Tora, Patton, and MacArthur. Comedy hits like MASH, The Sting, and Animal House tickled millions. Sci-Fi fans were thrilled by dynamic effects in Star Wars and Rollerball. The insane Mel Brooks scorched ears with Blazing Saddles and cured the scorching with Silent Movie. The indescribable Woody Allen woke up America with The Sleeper and the fashion world with Annie Hall.

Some movies were so successful that they were followed by sequels. These included The Godfather I & II, Jaws I & II, and The Exorcist and The Heretic.

By reviving musicals with a new twist, the 70's saw music return to the movies. John Travolta led the scene with his motion picture hits Grease and Saturday Night Fever. The movies of the 70's offered a variety of entertainment unsurpassed in recent years.

The seventies brought about vast changes in women's and men's fashions. The sixties carried over into the new decade with trends which include blue jeans, short skirts, tee shirts of all kinds, natural looks in makeup, and hair worn long and straight.

During the mid-seventies, a higher fashion awareness saw fashion trends move toward more classical styles. Dresses lengthened and 3-piece suits became popular for men and women. Temporary fads for women during these years included gauchos, shawls, knickers, platform shoes, French cuffs, and leisure suits. Hair for both sexes was worn shorter, and, after the 1976

Olympic Games, Dorothy Hamil's wedge haircut became popular for women.

The latter years of the decade saw the addition of blousy styles in women's clothing and the return of boots and hats. Sundresses, jumpsuits, and wrap skirts gained popularity, and vests, ties, and scarves also became fashionable for ladies. No outfit was complete without a stick pin, add-a-bead necklace, or serpentine chain.

For men, the addition of jewelry, khaki pants, grandfather shirts, button-down collars, and hats experienced a revival. Both men's and women's fashions have been affected by the recent disco-mania and its clothing.

Music of the 70's included many styles. Performers who pervaded the entire decade included Stevie Wonder, James Taylor, Wings, Elton John, Boz Scaggs, and the Bee Gees.

Early in the decade, America, Carole King, Cat Stevens, and Joni Mitchell produced subtle, smooth sounds and dynamic lyrics, a welcome change from the 60's. The Eagles and the Rolling Stones dominated the band scene of the early years. Mid-decade saw KC and the Commodores bump in a new trend in music. Jimmy Buffett popularized country sounds and furnished a helluva lot of songs to drink to. Singer-guitarist George Benson lent a degree of class to popular music with his emphasis on jazz. Gaining prominence toward the end of the 70's were solo vocalists Jackson Browne and Billy Joel, preteen idol Andy Gibb, and jazz sound band Pablo Cruz.

Politics of the seventies ushered in new international relations, domestic scandals, deficit spending, inflation, wage/price controls, and threats of recession — all of which affected the daily lives of American individuals.

Richard M. Nixon dominated the political scene in the early seventies with accomplishments in foreign affairs and disaster at home. While he was praised for his part in the Vietnam negotiations for peace and for his progressive diplomatic relations with China, Nixon's record was marred by his involvement in the Watergate scandal. Though he received a pardon for his criminal acts, Nixon's scandal set off a series of investigations into similar scandals in the various branches of government.

In a state of shock and amazement, the American people sought leadership based more upon the merits of honesty and integrity than upon the traditional criteria. Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter took charge to lead the country through the rest of the decade. Each president faced the dominant issues of increased shortages of energy, nuclear armaments, the Middle East conflict, the devalued dollar, and government spending.

The year 1976 stood out with its grueling presidential election and controversial Olympics, but these events were shadowed by America's monstrosous 200th birthday party, the Bicentennial. Preparation for the celebration began in the early seventies with the selling of red, white, and blue paraphernalia. By the time 1976 arrived, almost everything imaginable was available in red, white, and blue — clothes, houses, streets, fire hydrants, cars, planes, fur coats, and even coffins. When the Fourth of July, 1976, finally rolled around it lasted only 24 hours but in those hours were crammed an astronomical amount of patriotism and all-American celebrating. The festivities included parades, battle enactments, boat shows, fairs, political rallies, family cook-outs, and fireworks to finish the day. By July 5th Americans were anxious to pack away the red, white, and blue decorations, and re-enter the multi-colored world.

The seventies were years of growth for many religious groups. Among these groups were the Transcendental Meditation movement, the Unification church, the Jesus movement, and the Charismatic movement.

The T.M. movement, led by Maharishi Yogi, and the Unification church, led by Rev. Sun

Moon, swept the countries. The "Moonies" invaded shopping centers, selling flowers to collect money for their church.

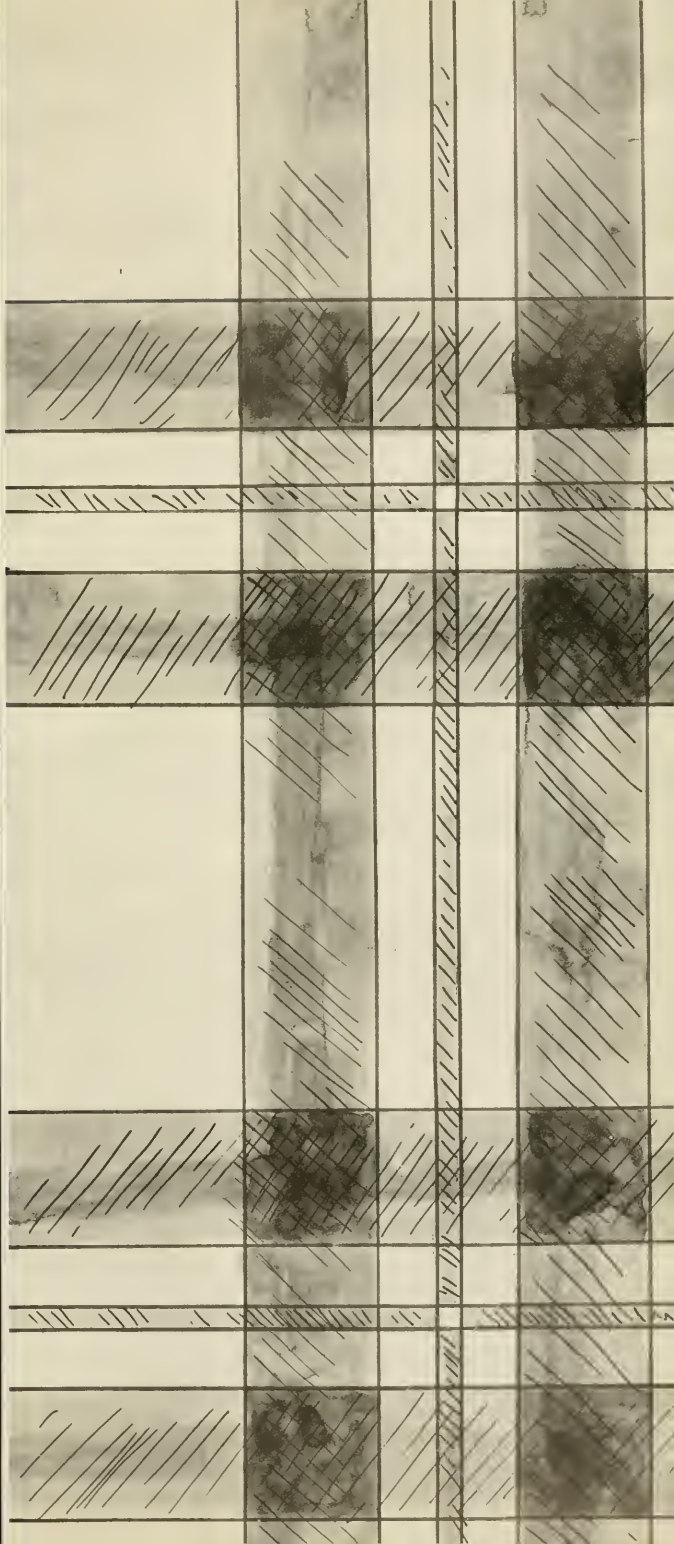

The Jesus movement and the Charismatic movement were prominent at colleges. At PC, Christians In Action and Westminster Fellowship originated as a result of increasing need for Christian fellowship.

ORGANIZATIONS

AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY

Presbyterian College's student affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society sponsored several activities this year. Speakers were brought to campus to discuss a number of topics, including nuclear medicine and medical school admissions. Another activity of the ACS was the sale of the popular Presbyterian College car tags.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

PC's chapter of the American Institute of Biological Sciences is open to all students interested in biology. Some of the lecture topics presented included aging and reproduction of marine microorganisms. A shell seminar was presented in which an impressive collection of seashells accompanied an interesting talk by Mrs. P.L. Bealy Smith.

kneeling — Cheryl Corley, Nan Herd, Caprice Mellon, Martha Decker, Jan Smith, Sandy Collins, Teresa Lawrence, Alison Cummings, Susan Buffington, standing — Johnny Boan, William Christopher, Jolly Howard, Bubba Reid, Sammy Schumann, Cathy Boyd, Clay Haskins, Mildred McCrary, Dave Frederick, Debby Carre, Brad Thomas, Susan Conn, Andy Nish, Ricky Phillips, Rob Robinson, Mark Schmidt, Eddie Hulse, Phil Perkins

sitting — Kathy Hammonds, Karen Wessinger, Tara Roddy, standing — Sherri Cameron, Hunter Griffin, Elizabeth Boggs, Candy McCaskill, Beth Conners, Harry Hicklin, Wilson Smith

AIBS seminars included a presentation of the "Sea Shells of the World."

ALSTON WILKES SOCIETY

The Alston Wilkes Society is a statewide organization whose purpose is to aid prisoners and ex-convicts and bring awareness to South Carolina citizens of prisoners and their conditions. Presbyterian has the only college chapter of this organization.

One of the highlights of the year's activities was a talk by Parker Evatt on alternatives to incarceration. Other activities included trips to the Corrections Institute in Columbia and other nearby corrections centers.

Debbie Burnside (Sec.-Tres.), Barry Baughman (Pres.), Kathy Ethridge (V. Pres.)

BUSINESS/ ECONOMICS CLUB

The Presbyterian College Business-Economics Club had its first full year of existence in 1978-79. Open to anyone who has taken a business course, the organization participated in Senior Day and toured Laurens Glass Company.

Cindy Norris — Pres.; Frank Ertel — V. Pres.; Dr. F. Van Clinkscales — Advisor; Molly Lariscy — Sec.-tres.

BLUE KEY

Blue Key is a national honorary fraternity composed of men who are outstanding in both academic accomplishment and campus leadership. The organization's purpose is to inspire ambition toward intellectual development and to stimulate willingness to serve the college and its students. This year the chapter tapped fifteen new members based upon their character, leadership, and academic standing. The group helped give campus tours on Youth Day, and, along with Cardinal Key, they sponsored drop-ins for Dean's List students at the home of the Academic Dean.

CARDINAL KEY

Tapping sixteen new members in mid-October, Cardinal Key reached its maximum size of twenty-five. Those juniors and seniors initiated into the national honor society became eligible by maintaining a GPR of at least 3.0 while participating in and leading various school and community activities.

As well as sponsoring the annual Youth Day activities in the fall, Cardinal Key helped to raise money for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation in the spring. In conjunction with Blue Key, this women's organization held drop-ins at the end of each semester to honor those students who were selected for the Dean's List.

CHRISTIANS IN ACTION

CIA — Christians in Action — is one of Presbyterian College's Christian fellowship organizations. Founded three years ago by a handful of students and their advisor, CIA has grown to include a very large group of interested students. With headquarters in the basement of Douglas House, the 1978-79 CIA held weekly meetings and sponsored service and fellowship projects with similar organizations across the state.

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP

In 1978, a Westminster Fellowship chapter returned to PC after an absence of several years. WF is a Presbyterian fellowship group; the PC chapter held weekly meetings on Sunday nights and participated in several state retreats. WF sponsors, Art Gatewood and Tom Stallworth were key coordinators in reorganizing WF, and they have been instrumental in the weekly programs and the other WF activities.

PAMOJA

To achieve a goal of learning through association rather than isolation is the purpose of Pamoja. Pamoja welcomes all interested students to participate in its activities. After all, Pamoja is the Swahili word for "togetherness." This year Pamoja was given the use of the basement of Georgia hall for its meetings.

PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE CHOIR

The Presbyterian College Choir continued its role as an outlet for students of all majors to utilize their musical talents. The choir served the college by entertaining at various campus functions throughout the year and by acting as a vehicle for campus relations. The highlight of the year's activities was the Spring Tour, which took the choir to New Orleans, Memphis, and Nashville.

PUBLICATIONS — BLUE STOCKING

The 1978 Blue Stocking staff worked to provide accurate and adequate coverage of news and events on campus. Meeting twice weekly, the staff received assignments on Sunday nights for the Wednesday night deadlines. Katherine Carruth and Kathy Smith teamed up to head the staff for 1978, and Lanie Woods took over as editor in January of 1979.

FIGS AND THISTLES

Figs and Thistles, PC's literary magazine, gives students the opportunity to express their creativity through poetry, photography, artwork, essays, and short stories. The 1978-79 staff judged all submitted work and prepared it for publication. The magazine's title, taken from Edna St. Vincent Millay, exemplifies the staff's attempts to separate the "figs" from the "thistles" to create the magazine.

ROTC

PC ROTC began the 1978-79 school year with the addition of several new cadet members to the staff.

ROTC seniors, having returned from summer training at Ft. Bragg, attempted to make the program enjoyable as well as informative. M-16 familiarization, communications, first aid, squad tactics, and orienteering were among the topics covered in Leadership Lab. The cadet corps ended their school year with a weekend in the woods for field training exercises on subjects covered during the year.

STUDENT COUNCIL — STUDENT ASSEMBLY

The Student Council initiated new programs this year including an SGA banquet, a Transfer Orientation Program, and a program of renovating the student center. The Council also served as head of the FOB. The Council is composed of five executive officers and two representatives from each class, and these members discuss many issues and act on them accordingly. This year the Council moved into a new office in the student center.

The Student Assembly continued to be active this year, discussing various aspects of student life. The assembly worked to raise money for the Marc C. Weersing SGA Scholarship which was raised to $600. Other activities included attendance at the State Student Legislature in Columbia where PC representatives took an active part in the meetings.

STUDENT ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE

The Student Entertainment Committee consists of students interested in determining the kinds of entertainment to bring to the campus. The SEC sponsored dances, concerts, coffeehouses, the Blue Sox Festival, Homecoming float competition, and Spring Swing weekend. The SEC also brought several popular movies to PC for the students. One of the SEC's most innovative actions was the initiation of a Fall Dinner-Concert held in the Dining Hall.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL — MEN'S COUNCIL

This year the main focus of the OWS was its positive function as an organizational body. The Women's Council remained responsible for governing the women students through policy-making and discipline. This year's major project was sponsoring the Spring Formal for the women students of PC and their dates. This project was financed by a raffle, candy apple and popcorn sales, and the very successful craft bazaar in the fall.

As a new organization on campus, the Men's Council consisted of representatives elected by the male students; the Council's main concern was to see that dorm life ran smoothly. Men's Council members assisted in freshman orientation and were also responsible for open dorm rule enforcement.

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION BOARD — TRANSFER ORIENTATION BOARD

The Class of 1982 received an enthusiastic welcome to PC by the Freshman Orientation Board. The freshmen wore the traditional look of beanie caps and signs as they enjoyed early morning serenades and getting to know PC and each other. Highlights of orientation were a field day with games and zany stunts, a picnic, and the Mixer. The FOB was composed of the Student Council and 31 students from the student body.

The Transfer Orientation Board was composed of the executive officers of the SGA and four former transfer students. This board worked with transfer students to acquaint them with PC's campus life. Other activities for transfer students included a cook-out at Dean Nixon's home.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER SERVICES

This year's Student Volunteer Services had about 225 students who helped other people in various ways. Projects included tutoring, working with underprivileged children, and working with the elderly. The overall goals of SVS include helping the people of Laurens County and learning how to deal with people. All SVS projects help PC students to realize these goals.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

Alpha Sigma Phi began its year by pledging 23 men. In continuation of their 50th Anniversary celebration, they held annual events such as Homecoming, Christmas Party, Riverboat, Black and White in the Mountains, a dance marathon, Hawaiian Holiday, a hat party and many others. The Sigs also gave a Halloween party for the kids at Thornwell and did other social projects including working for muscular dystrophy and Whitten Village.

KAPPA ALPHA

The Kappa Alpha fraternity enjoyed an exciting year. Fourteen new Southern Gentlemen were pledged as a result of rush. The Kappas continued their tradition of fine intramural teams by capturing the football championship. December 9 saw the KA's entertaining Thornwell children with a Christmas party. Throughout the year the fraternity sponsored fund raising projects for Muscular Dystrophy. KA party themes for the year included Wild West, casino, toga, and finally, Old South.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Pi Kappa Alpha enjoyed a successful year. September was filled with Rush activities, and the Pikes acquired many good pledges. Homecoming saw many alumni return to PC for a short but exciting weekend with friends old and new. In December the Pikes sponsored a Christmas party for the Thornwell kids which featured a special visit by Santa Claus himself. The semester ended with a shrimp and oyster party, followed by the fraternity's own Christmas party. Dream Girl weekend in the mountains was something to be remembered. Sherridan Cavitt's Memorial Plowout followed by the John Stroud's Hawaiian Luau spiced up the month of March. The Pikes' year concluded with the Roman Holiday at Myrtle Beach.

PI KAPPA PHI

The Pikapps started the year with a good rush. After three weeks of partying the end result was ten pledges. Continuing the year with community service projects, the Pikapps gave a Halloween party at Florida Street Elementary School and repainted a sign for a local funeral home. First semester parties saw the 1st annual brother-pledge party, Homecoming, Founders Day Party on Dec. 10th, and the exam Christmas party.

Second semester started with a welcome back party, but the Pikapps were soon busy raking leaves to raise money for Rose Ball, which was held on April 13th, 14th, and 15th. Throughout the year the Pikapps worked hard raising money for their national project, providing playground equipment for the deaf and blind.

SIGMA NU

1978 was a good year for the Sigma Nu Fraternity. Twenty-three new pledges were added to the chapter roster; the "Little Sister" program was a big success; and the Sigma Nus were active in community service work throughout the year as they visited the Old Folks Home in Laurens and had parties for Thornwell Orphanage and Whitten Village.

Danny Cook and Anita Landreth attempt a famous shag turn-around.

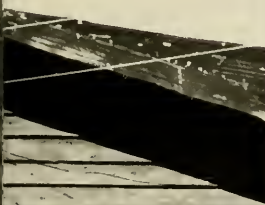

Pierce Marks and Molly Lariscy dance contentedly as the band plays on.

THETA CHI

The 1978-79 school year proved to be another successful one for the Beta Psi chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity. A successful rush season brought twelve quality pledges. The Thetas enjoyed a Halloween party at Whitten Village with CEC. For the second year in a row, the Homecoming Queen was the Theta Chi Representative. Second semester was highlighted by the annual "Sword and Serpent" weekend.

Officers are Eddie Hulse — Treas., Grant Jaquith — Pres., Robbie McCombs — V. Pres., Cline Drum — Pledge Marshall, Pete Wetherell — Sec.

Cline Drum, Larry Jones, and John Walkup sing along with the band at a bluegrass rush party.

Eddie Hulse discusses his fraternity with a rushee.

STAFF

The staff of the 1979 PAC SAC wishes to express its appreciation to the Security Officers for allowing staff members access to the offices at all hours of the day and night, and to Dr. and Mrs. Weersing for the use of their home. The staff would also like to thank the faculty and staff, who graciously offered their time and knowledge, and the Registrar's Office for helping to provide a Senior directory and lists of underclassmen. Finally, thanks are due to all students and organizations who cooperated with the 1979 PAC SAC staff by filling out forms and showing up for pictures.

And these tend inward to me, and I tend outward to them
And such as it is to be of these more or less I am,
And of these one and all I weave the song of myself.

— Walt Whitman
"Song of Myself"

What is so great about being a college student, being a senior, editing a yearbook? Being a senior is not what it is cracked up to be. It is knowing that fun and games are about to end, even though you didn't realize it was fun and games while you were here, and that life is just around the corner. It is regretting that life means joining the establishment that you laughed at and fought against, hoping that you'll never be like them, but knowing that you might. Being an editor is staying up all night to meet some deadline, cropping pictures, fitting copy, soothing staff disagreements, and misunderstandings, realizing that not everyone can be pushed, and hoping that you won't have to do it all yourself. Being a senior is a tiring, frustrating business. Being a senior yearbook editor is wanting to get the damn thing finished.

And what will I have to show for it? Two dusty books on some shelf as reminders of what everyone tells me are the best years of my life. Yet, even though those dusty books may sit there for years between glances, it has all been worth it. And ten years from now, some other junior or senior, or God forbid, someone who does it two years in a row, will be going through the same thing, and it will be worth it to him.
